BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Franklin Buchanan was born in Baltimore, Maryland, on September 17, 1800, into a prominent family. At the age of fifteen, he joined the United States Navy as a Midshipman, where he served under Oliver Hazard Perry. After subsequent promotions, Buchanan was, in 1845, chosen to be the first superintendent of the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland.

Buchanan commanded a vessel during the Mexican War and later went on to command Commodore Mathew Perry's flagship during the famed 1852 expedition to Japan. Following his return, Buchanan was, in 1855, awarded command of the Washington Navy Yard.

At the onset of the Civil War, Buchanan resigned his post. He joined the Confederate States Navy where he initially acted as the chief of the Office of Orders and Detail in the Navy Department. Eventually he was assigned command of the ironclad Virginia. Wounded while attacking the federal ships Cumberland and Congress, he was not present for the famed 1862 battle between the ironclads Virginia and Monitor at Hampton Roads, Virginia.

Buchanan later commanded the ironclad Tennessee. During an attack on Admiral David Farragut's Federal fleet in the waters off New Orleans, Louisiana, Buchanan was wounded and taken prisoner.

Following the war, Buchanan returned to Maryland, where he briefly served as president of Maryland Agricultural College (University of Maryland). He soon retired to his home in Easton, Maryland, where he died on May 11, 1874.

The collection is organized into 3 files and is arranged by material type.

FILE GUIDE

Folder 1 Finding aid

Folder 2 Documents

One (1) document from the Confederate States Navy Department, dated December 26, 1861. Bearing the signature of Franklin Buchanan, said document is a formal approval for the allocation of $79.20; this money was apparently spent on a renovation project as some of the items listed are as follows: an oil cloth, curtains, a brass hook, carpet, and cushions.

Folder 3 Photographs, 1873

Albumen print, measuring 5 ¾"x7 ½" and dated 1873, featuring Buchanan in a studio setting in Confederate States Navy uniform trousers and greatcoat.

Folder 4 Photographs, undated

Carte de visite, measuring 3"x3 ½" and bearing no date, presumably taken during the Civil War as it shows Buchanan in a Confederate States Navy uniform. This particular item is enclosed in a small folding case, which—on the inside of the cover—holds a miniature ornamental anchor bearing the words Merrimac and Virginia as well as the year 1862. It is not known whether either of these items—the case or the anchor—is from that era or ever belonged to Buchanan.
