BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Joseph Leland Cosby (1835-1925) was born in August 1835 in King and Queen County, Virginia, where he resided at the time of his enlistment into the Confederate army. He served four years in the 34th Regiment Virginia Infantry in Henry Alexander Wise’s Brigade. On May 31, 1862, he was wounded in the battle at Seven Pines. He was listed at that time as 4th Sergeant. In September 1863, Wise’s Brigade was sent to South Carolina as a reserve unit. The brigade was stationed in Saint Andrews Parish, near Charleston. In May 1864 Wise’s Brigade was ordered back to Richmond. It joined Bushrod Rust Johnson’s Division and became part of the Department of North Carolina and Southern Virginia under General P. G. T. Beauregard. Later the division joined the Army of Northern Virginia.

Following the war Cosby worked as a blacksmith for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. He married Columbia “Lum” A. Nunn after the war and had seven children. At the time of his death on October 1, 1925, Cosby resided at 816 27th Street in Newport News, Virginia. He is buried in Section O, Lot 45 at Greenlawn Memorial Park, Newport News.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The collection includes letters, a military pass, daybook, and muster roll relating to the Civil War service of Joseph Leland Cosby who served in Company “K”, 34th Regiment Virginia Infantry in Wise’s Brigade, Confederate States Army. Cosby wrote from Camp Jenkins Farm and Camp Little Britain Island in South Carolina during 1863/64 when the Brigade was stationed near Charleston. Most of the letters are from 1864 when the army defended Richmond and Petersburg.

Cosby described to his sweetheart, Lum, the religious revival that swept the army, his hopes of being married during the war and romance, the duties of a sentry, the conditions and fighting in the trenches near Petersburg, the poor rations, his reasons for fighting, his desire for peace, and his dreams. Other details include correspondence from the Virginia Hospital in Petersburg while Cosby recuperated from an illness; letters from the division hospital where he recovered from boils and a slight but lingering wound; and Cosby’s last letter from the Chimborazo medical complex near Richmond that discussed his bout with typhoid fever.

Cosby kept a tiny daybook that documents some of his activities, but it is very faded and it not very detailed. The muster roll, lists not only names of the members of Company “K”, but also in some cases what happened to them, whether they were killed, transferred, discharged, wounded, etc.

The material organized into 32 folders. It is arranged in ascending chronological order, thereafter by material type.
