History

The Mariners' Museum and Park was founded in 1930 by Archer Milton Huntington and Homer L. Ferguson. The first two years of development were devoted to creating and improving a natural park. Today, The Mariners' Park is one of the largest parks in the country that is privately owned and maintained, but free and open to the public. The Park is 550 acres of naturally wooded property that offers visitors a quiet and serene place to walk, run, or picnic.
